M OUR OWN COUNTRY.

San Prancisco is having many troub les. As soun as the rebuilding of the elly commenced the prices of sverything, lubor, jumber, iron,—verything needed to build up the rulned city, rose enormously, so that the poorer pe ple can hardly hulld houses at all. Everything was done by the greedy no a y-makers to hinder supplies and labor coming in from other places in such any as to put price down again where they ought to be. Now word comes that a large amount of money, perhaps as much as a million dollars, has been stolen from the re-lief fund. And finally, the mayor, Engene Schmitz, appears to be a grafter, a strong unprincipled political bias, and he has been indisted for exterilon and blackingli.

Pittsburg is also in trouble. It has had over a hundred highway robberlas and burglaries, several murders and other horrors, within a month, and the police force has been largely ineroased, a "vigilance committee" ap-pointed to help enforce the law and other ways of atopping the wholease crime are heing planned.

A number of the largest railroads and other corporations have raised the wages of their employees 10 percent, within the last month or two, and It is said that many others are planning to do so. Thera is no doubt the wages ought to be raised, both because the corporations are making more money and because the cost of living has increased much within the last few years. It would be well if th anjaries of ministers, teachers and other workers should go up in the pathy. "i wish I could help you, David You've done a big thing for me-for the Argus; and all I have to hand you in return is a death sentence. Mac-Farlane is hack."

"liere? in town?"

"Yes. And that isn't the worst of It. The governor sent for him." "Have you any idea what is in the wind?" asked Kent, dry-lipped. "I'm afraid I have. My young men have been nosing around in the Trans-Western affair, and several things have developed. Matters are approaching a crisis. The cut-rate boom is about to coliapse, and there is trouble brewing in the labor organizations. If Bucks doesn't get his henchmen out of it pretty soon, they will be involved in the smash-which will be had for them and for him, poiltically."

"I developed most of that a good while ago," Kent cut in.

"Yea; I know. But there is more to follow. The stock-smashing plan was all right, but it is proving too slow. Now they are going to do something else."

'Can you give it a name?" asked Kent, nerving himseif.

'i can. But first teli me one thing: as matters stand, could Guilford dispose of the road-seil it or lease it?" "No: he would first have to be made permanent receiver and be given authority by the court." "Ah! that explains Judge MacFariane's return. Now what I am going to tell you is the deadest of secrets. It came to me from one of the Overiand officials, and i'm not supposed to gossip. Did you know the Overland Short Line had passed under Plantagould domination?"

Her chair was close heside the lowswung hammock. She bent to his ear and whispered a single sentence. For a minute or two he sat motionless, weighing and balancing the chance of success against the awiftly multiplying difficulties and hazards.

"You call it desperate," he said at length, "if there is a higger word in the language, you ought to find and use it. The riak is that of a forloru hope; not so much for me, perhaps, as for the innocent-or at least ignorant-accomplices i'll have to en-

She nodded.

"That is true. But how much is our railroad worth?"

'It is bonded for fifty millions first, and twenty millions second mortgage. "Well, seventy millions are worth fighting for: worth a very consideraole risk. I should aay.

"Yes." And after another thoughtful Interval: "How did you come to think of it?" "It grew out of a hit of talk with the man who will have put the apex on our pyrnmid after we have done our part.

"Will he sland by us? If he doesn't we shall all he no hetter than deed men the morning after the fact."

She clasped her hands tightly over her knee, and aaid:

That is one of the chances we must take, David; one of the many. But it is the last of the bridges to be crossed, and there are lots of them in between. Are the details possible? That was the part I couldn't go into by myself." He took other minutes for reflection.

"i can't tell," he said doubtfully. "if I could only know how much time we have."

Her eyes grew juminous.

"David, what would you do without me?" she asked. "To-morrow night, in Stephen Hawk's office in Gaston you will lose your railroad. MacFarlane is there, or if he isn't, he'li he there in the morning. Bucks, Guilford and Hawk will go down from here tomorrow evening; and the Overland people are to come up from Midland City to meet them."

There was awe undisguised in the look he gave her, and it crept into hia voice when he said:

"Portia, are you really a flesh-andblood woman?'

She amiled. "Meaning that your ancestors would have burned me for a witch? Perhaps they would: I think quite likely they hurned women who made better martyrs. But I didn't have to call in Filibbertigibhet. The programme ia a carefully guarded secret, to he sure; but it is knewn-it had to be known -to a number of people outside of our friends the enemy. You've heard the story of the inventor and his secret, haven't you?"

"Well, the man had invented something, and he told the secret of it to his son. After a little the son wanted to tell it to a friend. The old man said, 'Ilold on; I know it-that'a one' -holding up one finger-'you know i: that's eleven'-holding up another finger hesides the first: 'and now if you teli this other fellow, that'll he one hundred and eleven'-holding up three fingers. That is the case with this programme. One of the one hundred and eleven-he is a person high up in the management of the Overland Short Line-dropped a few words in my hearing and i picked them up.

That's all. "It is fearfully short-the time, I mean," he said after another pause. "We can't count on any help from any one in authori'y. Guilford'a broom has swept the kigh-salaried official corners clean. But the wagepeople are mutinous and ripe for anything. I'll go and find out where we atand." And he groped on the floor of the veranda for his hat. 'No, wait a minute," she interposed. "We are not quite ready to adjourn yet. There remains a little matter of compensation-your compensation-to he considered. You are still on 12e

Insurance for Workmen a State Obligation

By CHARLES R. HENDERSON. Professor Sociology, University of Chicago.

IE advocates of social insurance in the advanced nations are not asking for charity nor for class legislation and special privileges. Social morality means cooperative action for the common welfare, and social insurance is in our times necessary to the general welfare. Life, education, health, economic prosperity of the nation depend on a secure and sufficient income for wage earners and a fund for support when disease or accident stops income at its source. Who are the parties in interest? First of all the children of our manufacturing centers. future cilizen.

Collective insurance is necessary to public health. Wage carners will not and cannot provide for surgical and medical care at all commensurate with their needs. As individuals they will suffer from the effects of accidents and occupational disense until the effects become ruinous and hereditary before they will ask medical advice for which, as individuals, they know they cannot pay. An ordinary medical bill and other expenses incident to unemployment for prolonged sickness due to occupation represent Asheries, has presented to the Agassiz, a year's wages. Nor will voluntary organization meet the social demand, because associations and insurance companies select their clients by medical exantinations, and many who most need insurance are thus excluded.

Every class in the nation is directly and vitally interested in having it is on the other, and whittle each workingmen on low wages insured; the children who are to be the future producers and citizens armed with suffrage; the philanthropists who are and was killed. It would naturally thow required to attempt the impossible task of meeting both the legitimate demands of exceptional misery and also the requirements of a misery caused by social neglect; the managers of business and enterprise, whose capital is dead without efficient labor, not to speak of the millions of wage carners themselves and persons on small income who not only toil but suffer injury as part of their service in producing commodities for us all.

As we must criticise the actual law in order to realize the beneficent ideals of the bill of rights, so we must overcome the traditional errors connected with the catchword "individualism" in order to realize the value of personality. For a genuine individualism is not, as some appear to think, equivalent to selfishness and isolation. Only in society does a man realize himself and make the most of himself. It does not speak well for the sincerity and intelligence of men who advocated unlimited individualism for the workingman while they themselves seek riches and power by that period. Red and white China all sorts of combinations, some of them legitimate. It is too late in history to return to isolated action, since the world has discovered to its ad- hole into which drive a piece of iron vantage that collective effort multiplies the power of each member and gives him a better share in that inheritance of civilization to which millions the wood. have contributed through all ages past.

Inexpensiveness of True Happiness

By DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS.

piness is inexpensive is seen in the fact that man's chief pleasure comes from mental culture. Upon reflection, we all discover that our happiest moments, day by day, are those when we are conscious that we have grown in manhood or womanhood through the companionship of great books and conversation with wise friends. Nothing exhibitates like a golden hour of personal growth. What a glow pervades the mind when one approaches the last pages of an inspiring story, poem or oration! The pleasure is not fiery, nor consuming. It is a gentle pleasure, like that experienced when we listen to high music, or look at a sunset, or behold a mountain side golden with autumnal sidendor.

A higher form of happiness is the least expensive—the happiness of love and service. The keenest delight that ever ravished the soul of man sufficient quantities to be able to say is the delight of serving the poor and weak. That wealthy Englishman who took his art treasures to Sheffield was a wise man. He had marbles that had come from Greece, pictures from the galleries of Italy, examples of the French and Dutch schools. He did not take them to a gallery that would spread his name and fame. He founded a school of art for the working people who made knives and forks and spoons. He taught them how to spread beauty over the walls of the during-room and parlor, and gave them models for beautiful chairs, beautiful carpets, beautiful rugs, His gallery is empty, but his heart holds something that it has never held before-happiness-that the world could not give and could never take

> This is the joy of knowledge that the wise man ean teach. The artist's joy is in giving beauty to ugly lives. After one has had their food and raiment, life's feast begins when we help and serve and do good work. That is why we so often see people who have lived arid, desert lives in prosperity, but whose career of happiness, peace and influence begun when reverses began. Not many can be rich. All can be happy. The food of sinplieity, the raiment that is quiet, can be enjoyed by

The Chinese Labor Problem in Panama

By JUE CHUE.

If Chinese laborers are to be brought over to Panama to help dig the canal it need not worry Americans very much. All this cry against such a course is illogical, in my opinion. The Chinese coolie is better adapted for the work in the canal than the American laborer. He can live on less, is willing to put up with more discomfort and can stand the elimatic conditions on the isthmus better.

The American laborer is used to comforts in his home that the Chinese coolie has never known. He has a better home, not only because his wages allow it, but because he lives where the standards of living are higher and better. If he should go to the isthmus he would find conditions of living forced upon him that he would not long endure, and New York, or whatever place he called "home," would soon see him back again.

Leave the peg nearly three times as long on one side of the button as end to a smooth point. This will enable you to spin the top on either the long or short end, and the differ ent motions produced will add greatly to your anusement. To set it in inotion twirl the peg between the thumb and forefinger of the right hand or the palms of both hands, and at the same time drop it gently upon a floor or some other smooth surface. Figure how it looks when spinning on the long end of the peg.

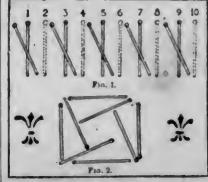

In Figure 2 there is an illustration of a whip top. This is a general favorite, and can be easily made, says the Montreal Heraid. Take a piece of wood that is shaped like a cylinder, and about one and a half inches in diameter. With the compasses mark out the exact center of the stick at one end. At this point bore a small wire. This wire should be cut off about three eightbs of an incb from

Now for the second trick. Take two of the matches away, leaving eight, and proceed to form them so they will make four right-angled triangles and two squares. The smaller square should be made first by four matches as shown in Fig. 2, and then the remaining four matches added, forming the second square, thus glving the geometrical result asked for.

Young People Need Sleep.

Sleep, and how much of It the aver age person needs, was one of the subjects considered by the British asso ciation at its annual meeting. The scientific men were agreed that no universal rule can be laid down; but they were also agreed that Wellington's saying, "Six hours for a man, seven for a woman and eight for a fool," would place the author of It, II from left to right in your mind and he had done nothing else, in the eighthour class, says the Youth's Companlon. DRINKING IN ILL-REPUTE.

Evidence of Decline of Aicoholism la England.

Consul Frank W. Mnhin, of Nottinghum, in writing on the decrease of drinking and drunkenness in Eng und, says; The truth of such a statement would probably be doubted by the ensual observer of the number of intoxicated people on the streets and of men and women entering public houses. Hut the evidence is derived from a comparative study of social conditions and from the customs reurns and the reports of beer brewing companies. No doubt another trustwarthy gaide is the tendency of public sentiment, which is unquestionably in the direction of sobrlety. Temperance societies in this country are growing in numbers and influence. Outside of these, the abuse of Intoxicants in its relation to mental and physical health is receiving much st tentlon. A special connaittee last year made an exhaustive investign tion of the subject and reported to parliament.

The substance of this report was, nt the request of temperance societies, published by the authorities of sevral Loadon and provincial boroughs through placards posted on billboards and distributed in factories and workshops The Nottingham placard. signed by the chairman of the city council's health committee, the city's medleal officer and the lown clerk, reads as follows:

"The report of the committee presented to parliament by command of his majesty states that: "The abuse of alcoholic stimulants is a most potent and deadly agent of physical deterioration.

"Mediatic persons are specially liable to tuberculosh and all inflammatory disorders.

"Evidence was placed before the committee showing that in abstinence is to be sought the source of nuscular vigor and activity.

The lunacy figures show a Isrge and increasing number of admissions of both sexes yhich are due to drink. "The following facts, recognized by the medical profession and placarded all over France by order of the gov ernment, are published in order to carry out the recommendation of the committee and to bring bome to men and women the fatal effects of alcohol on physical efficiency:

"I. Alcoholism is a chronic poisoning resulting from the babitual use of alcohol (whether as spirits, wine or beer), which may never go as far as drunkenness.

"2 It is a mistake to say that those doing hard work require stimulants As a fact, no one requires sicohol as either food or tonic

'3 Alcohol is really a narcotic, dulling the nerves, like laudanum or oplum, but is more dangerous than either in that often its first effect is to weaken a man's self-control while his passions are excited, ience the number of crimea which occur under lis influence.

"4 Spirits, as usually taken, rapidly produce alcoholism, but milder alcoholic drinks, as beer, and even cider, drunk repeatedly every day, produce, after a time, alcoholic polaoning with equal certainty.

"5. The habit of drinking leads to the ruin of families, the neglect of soclal duties, disgust for work, misery, theft and crime. It leads also to the hospital, for alcohol produces the most various and the most fatal diseases, including paralysis, insanity, disease of the stomach and liver and dronsy it also paves the way to consumption, and frequenters of public houses furnish a large proportion of the victims of this disease it complicates and aggravates all acute diseases. Typhoid fever, preumoida and erysipeias are rapidly fatal in the subject of ulcoholism.

"6. The sins of alcoholic parents are visited on the children if these survive infancy they are threatened with. idlocy or epilepsy, and many are carried away by inherculosis, meningitis or phthisis (consumution).

"7. in short, alcoholism is the most terrible enemy to personni health, to family happiness and to untional pros-

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

A Large investment That Should Be Well Looked After.

If you have not gathered up, cleaned and properly housed your farming implements, and protected them from rust and weather, do so at once, before the snows and rains come on. The total uncount of the farmer's investment in machinery is necessarily inrue, and it is the part of prudence for him to take good care of it in a mschine shop or factory, every piece of machinery is in use day after day. The farmer is obliged to buy and keep in repair a dozen machines which he has use for only n few days ont of the year. He runs his mowing machine perhaps two weeks sitogether, his binder half that time, and his hay tedder perhaps not three days ail told. The wheat and corn drillis come in for only a few days' use, and the potato planter and digger for no longer period. During the remainder of the year it is necessary to eare for and properly house these machines in order to keep them in good condition.

The public roads office of the United States department of agriculture is experimenting with a novel method of no far been confined to the clay or rial. Such boards are shown at experiments are altogether new. The roadway selected for treatment is graded to an even width hetween ditches and then plowed as deeply as possible. Forrows are then dug scross the road from ditch to ditch, four feet apart. Cordwood is then pinced in the ridges thus formed, the plowed clay is laid thereon in layers, care being taken to provide flues in order that the wood will readily burn and hake the clay. When the firing is completed the treated clay is rolled and compacted to eight fuches in thickness. The clay has been changed by the burning luto clinkers, which compact into a solid roadbed, which will not form mud. The cost of such road in a country where wood sells at $1.30 a and f; b is Ix2 inch strips nalled on cord was $1,478 per mile, and while the wearing qualifies of the road have not | ding; d shows two thicknesses of pabeen ascertained, it is believed that it will wear as well as other made roads. SAND AND CLAY ROADS.

Mixturo ef Sand Clay, Sand and Gravel Makes Compact Surface.

In the state of Minnesota a road of deep sand with the road bed channeled out about six inches deep was treated with a load of clay spread out the width of the wheel track, and about 16 feet in length. The same day an equal amount of fine gravel was spread over the chry. Of course this was a very thin covering, but after the first heavy rains the heavy loads passing over The Town and Country Journal of churned the gravel, clay and the un-Australia illustrates a method of ar- derlying loose sand into a soft much, ranging rain barrels in a series which which, when it dried out and became will appeal to our farmers. Several packed, made a hard composite of large barrels are set in a row on a these three materials. This road has

Second ter is used each time from the barrel the sides of the road hed retained the furthest from the eave spont with the materials. Third, the sticky nature of the clay bound together both the gravel and the fine sand already there. This road proved to be as good as the average country dirt road and cost less

Last year another road was repaired hy using double the amount of clay, that is, a load for about eight feet with half as much gravel. This rond had a lair foundation. The result was one of the finest ronds in the country. The cost was about $350 per mile. It will last seven or eight years without much repair.

Another very sandy road was re paired with a load of loose gravel for every eight feet. It was a partial fail ure as the gravel did not puck well. Recently gravel intermixed with black loam has been placed on this road with good results, making a hard, durable

Of course, where the grade was steep more unterlal was used and the road was made more crowning to prevent the water from washing out the track. A piece of road was tried with isy alone. The clay was put on rather heavily so that it could not, by heavy loads, cut into the sand beneath. The sequel was after heavy rains an almost impassable road. To remedy this the sand at the sides was scraped and shoveled on the clay, to the depths of several luches where it soon became mixed with the clay, producing a good surface but not as good as gravel would have made.

First, from this we infer that a very small quantity of clay inixed with the sand of the road will greatly im prove it.

Second, that it is a mistake to put a heavy coat of clay over sand unless an abundance of gravel can be procured to mix with it.

Third, that heavy clay roads at times having had mud tioles can be improved by adding two or three inches of sand which will soon become mixed with the clay, making it more friable and less liable to become muddy and full

The gravel was hauled at about an average distance of 14 miles and the clay about three fourths of a nille.

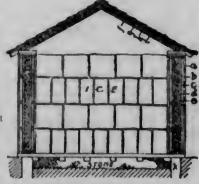

The cost of about four miles repaired this year and last was nearly Expenses, Regulations, Opening Days.

Berea College is not a money-making institution. All the money received from students is paid out for their benefit, and the School expends on an average upon each student about fifty dollars a year more than he pays in. This great deficit is made up by the gifts of Christian and patriotic people who are supporting Berea in order that it may train young men and women for lives of usefulness.

Planning for a Year of School.

PERSONAL EXPENSES for clothing, laundry, postage, books, etc., vary with different people. Berea favors plain clothing. Our climate is the best, but as students must attend classes regardless of the weather, warm wraps and underclothing, umbrellas and overshoes, are necessary. The Co-operative Store furnishes books, toilet articles, work uniforms, umbrellas and other necessary articles at cost.

Living Expenses are really below cost. The College asks no rent for the fine buildings in which students live, charging only enough room rent to pay for cleaning, repairs, fuel, lights, and washing of bedding and towels. For table hoard, without coffee or extras, $1.35 a week in the fall, and $1.50 in winter. For room, furnished, fuel, lights, washing of bedding, 40 cents a week in fall and spring, 50 cents in winter.

School Fees are two. First a "Dollar Deposit," as guarantee for return of room key, library books, etc. This is paid but once, and is returned when the student departs.

Second an "Incidental Fee" to help on expenses for care of school buildings, hospital, library, etc. (Students pay nothing for tuition or services of teachers-all our instruction is a free gift). The Incidental Fee for most students is $5.00 a term ($4.00 in lower Model Schools. $6,00 in courses with Latin, and $7.00 in Collegiate courses).

Payment must be in advance, incidental fee and room rent by the term, board by the month. Installments are as follows:

For Winter Term (1? weeks)-First day, $17.00 (besides $1 deposit); 28th day, $6.00; 56th day, $6.00; total, $29. If paid all in

For Spring Term (10 weeks) - First day, $14.40; 28th day, $5.40; 56th day, $2.70; total, $22.50. If paid all in advance, $22.00.

The two terms together, paid for in advance, at a reduction of $2.50, making only $49.00, Longer Winter Term, (16 weeks)-First day, $20.60; 28th day,

$6.00; 56th day, $6.00; 84th day, $5.10; total, $38.00. If paid all in advance, $37.00. Refunding. Students excused to leave .. fore end of term receive back all they have advanced on board and room, except that no allowance is made for any fraction of a week, and a fee of fifty cents is charged for leaving the boarding hall and tifty cents for leaving a room in term time. There is no refunding of incidental fee.

It Pays to Stay. When you have made your journey and are well started in school it pays to stay as long as possible. The First Day of winter term is January 2, 1907.

The first is a teacher who can plun and execute, the cooperation of pupils and patrons and times for preparation. Like the exhibition it is for every member of the school. Ordinarily the best time for it is ut the close of the term. If the pupils know in good time that specimens of their work in every branch are to be exhibit d it will be a strong irrentive to progress. If specimens of pornouship, drawing and the lite are taken in the beginning of the term and he i away to be compared with others taken near the close it will add to the inducement to effort. So in as should also be taken from time to three say at the end of each north. God paper should be used and good pairs taken in the matter for the sound accuracy.

In such still a company of the godrawing, and numbers, methods of the tree tree to the tree tree trees may be more difficult. Making it git s is no that parties, and not very difficult when once un love! I under so the sheald be chosen such as, Nut Gathering, sorghum maying, guthering herries, making a bouquet. etc. A nice drawing on the margin of the page suggestive of the subject, as a stalk of cane, a bunch of berries, a flower, adds an effective touch.

This you will say is not reading but composition. It is composition truly enough, but why not reading? Pupils will read their own composition better and enjoy it more than that found in books. Neat little pictures can be cut from advertisments and to serve a like purpose.

Physiology is a good subject for written work. Even if the teaching is orul valuable lessons can be given with some simple illustration; the pupils can write out the substance of what has been developed in the class. Nature study also furnishes an inexhaustible supply of interesting material. Every month in the year has its products and the study of birds, insects, weeds, flowers and crops affords a delightful variety for the cultivation of the mind and the specimens and written descriptions that can easily be secured will make an interesting and instructive display. In fact when the work of preparing for an exposition is once started there is no trouble in finding material. The greatest danger will be in having too much so that it will be confusing. Considerable care is necessary in arranging the display so that it can be easily seen and understood. As much as possible should be put on the walls that it may be seen without handling. A blank wall is much to be preferred. The work of the several grades should be arranged in order beginning with the first. Each grade should be ticketed and further distinguished by some kind of boundary line. When the available wall space is exhausted boards may be placed around the sides of the room about three feet high and the same order of arrangement observe l. This will give

A whole afternoon is not too much to devote to an exposition in a dis trict school. The advanced pupils should be shown how to conduct visiaround the room and explain the work. They and the teacher will find pleuty to do. Every parent will want to see the work of his or her children and then compare it with that of others. It often happens that a boy who has been absent a considerable portion of the time will have a poor showing. The parent will ask the reason for this and the explanation should be forthcoming, "Eddie was absent so many days or weeks and fell behind his class." No better object lesson can be furnished and it will be strange if the parents do not determine that Eddie shall not be kept out of school on any frivolous pretext hereafter. Many exclamations will also be made about excellence of the display as most of the visitors never saw anything to equal it. No such thing was thought of in their day. Interest and pride in the skill and proficiency of their children will be aroused and they will carry away a greater realization of the value of a day in school than they ever had.

The children likewise will feel that their efforts have been appreciated and determine to go on to still greater achievements. When all is over each pupil may carry with him such of his own work as he desires to preserve. It will serve for future comparisons. The author has given many such expositions and always with the most gratifying results.

Ditching.

BY H. M. WASHIECEN.

In order to do any good at ditching one must have a spade, a shovel, a line, about one hundred feet long. The best spade for this use is the regulation plote about eight feet long. The best spade for this use is the regulation ditching spade the blade of which is about five inches wide and fourteen inches long. With this you can cut more dirt than with any other spade, for being narrow it slides into the earth easier and being long it goes for being narrow it slides into the earth easier and being long it goes for being narrow it slides into the earth easier and being long it goes deeper. And usually you can move out four of these spade fulls while you are moving three of the others. The shoved that is best for this purpose is the short handle, round-pointed shovel, number XXXX. This sized shovel holds about as much dirt as a man wishes to handle ten hours at a stretch. The round point allows it to enter the earth more freely than the square pointed shovel. Usually a cotton cord about the size of a match is used. The crosses are made from two pieces of two by four, about servent and the contract in the day had not of yet notified me to fall back, and I did not intend to validate, which is down that the without orders or a fight, and the others or the slike without orders or a fight, and the others or the light of way appeared. I knew I could trust my colapany against any collection of nea and went along their line and instructed each in case for the field, we saw the suit of their health part pressed how to return the light of the wind without orders or a fight, and the light of the wind while you are moving three of the others. Our brigade was detached from the division, and was assigned a position one side and your ditch the same width. After going over this once with the spade, if you are a clean spader, you had better spade it again before removing the loose dirt. Thus with spade and shovel you remove all the dirt within a foot or sixteen inches of the right depth. Then you must stretch your line overhead. This is done by use of the crosses.

Measure off seven feet on your pole and make a large notch. If your plan calls for four feet at the first stake, then you place your string three feet above the top of the small stake, level with the top of the ground. You will find these stakes every fifty feet along the ditch. At each stake put a cross and pincing it above the stake equal to the difference between the reading on the plau for that stake and seven feet. Then you must stretch your line tight in these crosses. Then with pole at hand, you spade the Rice must be thoroughly was idl to r move all grid and loose sturch. dirt out, leaving about three luches more to remove. After removing all shovel. TENTACLES OF DEATH

BLIND AND VICTIM OF PARAYLSIS,

The Statesman's Faithful American Wife is His Constant Attendant.

London, Nov. 23.-Joseph Chamber-Jain, the most picturesque of the living statesmen of Great Britain, ia believed to be dying at his home in Birmingham. For four months he has not appeared in public and it has just been learned that he is a victim of parniysis

The oace powerful debater and political manipulator, who held the destiales of the empire in his hand, is a mere wreck of his former self. Almost sightless and unable to articulate the most aimple words, he sits in his splendid home, bolstered up with idlious, awaiting the final summons. It is evident to his friends that he will never recover and that the end can not long be delayed.

Mr Chamberlain's attendant is his charming wife, who was Miss Endirott, of Massachusetts, n daughter of Prosident Cleveland's former secretary of war. She remains with her distinguished husband constantly and sees that his every wish is attended to

STORY WITH A MORAL.

Effective Truth That Has Been Worth Many Speeches.

Those people who are so concerned about the high cost of living and the prices demanded by ac-called "trusts' can read the following with ao little laterest and a considerable amount of an Enormous Gain Over tha Demo- instruction. John L. Moorman, of Knox, Republican district chairman for the Thirteenth Indiana congres aional district, said recently:

"We are having few speeches in the Thirteenth district. About all we are doing up there is to tell one story, and it seems to do the work better than speeches. Listen! Not long age a farmer la Nebraska. Bryan's state, went to a buggy dealer to buy a buggy. He found one that suited him, and the price was $62. The farmer happened to remember that about a dozen years ago he had bought a buggy just like it from the same dealer for $55, and he mentioned the fact. The dealer went to his books and found this to be true. 'But,' said the dealer, 'my hooks show that you did tors." not pay cash for it, because you did calls them thieves. not have the money. Dishonest Reciprocity.

The Sacramento Bee says "there is no honest itepublican opposition to reciprocity such as dues not involve surrender of the principle of genuine protection to American labor." Comment and Suggestive Thought. V. 33. "They," the Roman soldiers and their victim. 'They crucified him." Itoman soldlers performed the act, but They were only instruments for earrying out the decree of l'llate, given to appease the bitter hatred of the Jewish rulers. V. 42. "Lord, remember me." He believes in Jesus' love and feels His ability to save.

V. 43. "To-day shalt thou be with me in paradise." The man had prayed for a blessing in a far distant day, but Jesus grants him what shall be realized to day.

V. 44. "Sixth hour . . . ninth bour." From noon until three p. m., a miraeulous darkness enveloped Juden, as if the sun hid his face from beholding the wickedness of men.

V. 45. "Sun was darkened." This explanation endorses the testimony of astronomy that an eclipse of the sun at the time of full moon was impossible (the Passover was eelebrated at full moon), hence the darkness must have been supernatural. "The vell of the temple was rent." This rending signified that the way of access into the very presence of God was opened. by Christ.

V. 46. "When." At the moment Jesus felt that he was about to lose conscionsness, after having pronounced the words "it is finished." he cried "with a loud voice," showing that his physical powers were not exhausted. Father, into thy hands I commend: my spirit." He committed his soul, as he had committed all else, to the caro of the Father. "Gave up the ghost." Breathed out his life. The word used indicates the voluntary surrender of life.
